The Election Kentucky Deserves
An open letter sent to Kentucky’s top election officials on August 12, 2020

TO: Governor Andy Beshear
    Secretary of State Michael Adams
    All members of the State Board of Elections,

Most Kentuckians agree that our democracy works best when we all have a voice and a vote in the decisions impacting our lives.

In this year’s primary election, many Kentuckians could vote early or by mail for the very first time and overwhelmingly chose those options. We had record voter turnout and largely did it safely from our homes. It wasn’t perfect. But that’s something to celebrate in any election, and especially impressive in the middle of a pandemic.

Now, the risk of COVID-19 is greater than ever. Kentucky has the opportunity to improve upon that election process and give Kentuckians the election we deserve – one that makes voting safe, convenient, secure and robust.

It’s more important than ever that the voices of all Kentuckians are heard on election day, and we know from experience how to do that.

We urge you to implement these measures to give Kentuckians the election we deserve:

Preparation for the Election
- Community input at the county and state level: Voters deserve to provide input on the process.
- No new photo ID rules (SB 2) so that people don’t need to photocopy ID when voting by mail and there’s no confusion about what ID people need to vote.
- A well-funded, public information campaign to spread the word about changes to the election process statewide, with a focus on communities with low voter turnout and limited access to the internet and libraries.
- Include www.CivilRightsRestoration.KY.gov so the 170,000 Kentuckians whose voting rights were restored through Governor Beshear’s executive action know that they can vote.
- Accessible election materials: large print for Kentuckians with visual impairments, written at a 4th grade reading level, include visual guides, and Spanish translation in counties with a significant Spanish-speaking population.
- Strong poll worker training: accessible, vast and starts as soon as possible.
- Resources for voters to ask and get answers to questions: a statewide hotline staffed by well-trained workers and a centralized website sharing each county’s voting process and hours.

Fair and Accessible Election
- Free mail-in option for all Kentuckians, without an extra step to mail in an application
- Early in-person voting for weeks before Election Day, including evening and weekend hours so that essential workers and others can find time to vote
- More polling locations open than in the primary, particularly in our most populous counties
• Polling locations open late – until 8 p.m. or 9 p.m. on Election Day
• Accurate and public-facing ballot tracking, including whether someone’s vote counted or was rejected, with an option to fix or resubmit rejected ballots.
• Publicly-accessible drop boxes for ballots

We can choose to have an election that makes us proud - one that includes thousands more Kentuckians. We will have to invest time in shaping a collective process and resources to make it happen. Kentucky’s democracy and people are worth it. The alternative is to ask poll workers and voters to risk their lives to vote – something we truly cannot afford.

We are committed to doing our part – registering thousands of voters, making tens of thousands of calls to encourage people to vote, and letting them know about changes to the election process. We’re asking you to invest in Kentucky too, and to give us the election Kentuckians deserve.
